

"Rising up from the snow covered realm of Adrililith is the heaviest stoner metal band to ever grace the nine realms of the cosmos. We rise now and with the help of the forsaken orb travel to your home planet of Earth to take back what has been lost over the last century or so. Rock and roll has wained and in its stead a breed of filth known as Pop, Rap & EDM have plagued your realm. Usurpers have claimed the billboard throne and we are here to put a stop to such false prophets.

Dragon's Bane has traveled through time and space perfecting their craft. We have lived a thousand lives recalling tales of our infamy and the lives of men that would make your usurpers look like unseasoned boys. We come now to reclaim the billboard throne, restore rock and roll to its rightful temple and plunge the world into another renaissance of rock and roll. So usurpers beware, we will hang pop stars limb from limb. We will burn rap idols at the stake and we will crush all DJ's within our palms.

No one can stop us from our cosmic domination. Your only salvation is to cast out your false prophets and take up your axes and join the revolution, say the words and swear the oath to the only band worth enough of praise. DRAGON'S BANE."
